Landscape Architect Lorin Underwood was at the hospital on Tuesday, consulting with Dr. H. M. Pollock regarding the plans for the laying out of the grounds about the institution, which are practically completed now. The grounds will, of course, be graded, and there will be a walk leading directly to the administration building, while the drives to that building will form half a circle. There will also while the drives to that building will form half a circle. There will also be other walks and drives about the property of the hospital, and at the south will be the athletic field, with a baseball diamond and grandstand, a straightfway running track and an oval track for athletic sports.

In laying out the grounds, it is planned to use mostly native trees, rather than to bring in those not accustomed to this section, and make the locality look like a foreign institution in a strange place. Native trees and shrubs with a good number of perennials will be set out about the grounds the flowers giving the grounds a cheerful aspect and no bouts,
